PRESS RELEASE

Village Visit Day 2010

Free admission and activities for local residents

Saturday 15 May 11am to 5pm

Feeling full of the joys of Spring, the Museum is offering free entry to local residents all day on Saturday 15 May, as well as storytelling, crafts, a free drink in Café Twit and a 10% discount in the Shop.

Visitors – who will need to bring a utility bill as proof of their local 'HP' postcode – will be entitled to free admission and a 10% discount on all the fantabulous children's books and Roald Dahl-inspired toys and gifts in our swishwiffling Shop.

Apologies to our near neighbours, but our noisy storytellers will be in full flow throughout the day and needing help with extra sound effects and general joining in! For a quieter corner, visitors can escape to the galleries and craft room to find the mouse in the sweetie jar, make mousey finger-puppets and wearable mouse-ears, or join puppet-maker Gemma Holland anytime between 2pm and 3.30pm to make a snouty Proghopping Puppet creature.

There will be a selection of scrumdiddlyumptious lunches, snacks and special Village Visit Day treats available from Café Twit along with a free refreshing glass of iced Giant Peach Punch.
